2. On 23 September 1953, 19 type 50 locomotives were seen on a siding at kilometer stone 27 a short distance from Ruednitz railroad station on the Berlin-Eberswalde line. These locomotives had been newly painted; the wheels were red. The smokestacks were covered.
3. As of late October 1953, the locomotive repair shop in Stendal employed approximately 5,000 persons excluding apprentices. They work two and three shifts daily. The shop repairs locomotives and constructs new ones. All the sidings are full of newly-built locomotives and locomotives in need of repair. Work cannot be completed because of a shortage of white metal for bearings and driving rods.
